

HARDER TO LIVE FOR ONE'S COUNTRY

THAN IT IS TO DIE FOR HER SAID REV. G. H. L. BEEMAN OF GREENCASTLE—ADDRESSED A LARGE AUDIENCE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN CRAWFORDSVILLE SUNDAY NIGHT.

"THE BEST CITIZENSHIP"

Rev. G. H. L. Beeman of Greencastle, state secretary of the National Reform Association, addressed a large audience in the Christian church Sunday evening upon "The Best Citizenship." Mr. Beeman said in part: "Christ was a good citizen and urged people to do their duty in civil affairs, saying 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's.' In rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, we are just as far rendering unto God the things that are God's, for government is the ordinance of God. It is harder to live for one's country than it is to die for her, and we must be willing to need be, to sacrifice our own convenience for the good of the state. The Christian duties of citizenship are exceedingly important. The church may save and consecrate men, and instruct them as to their civil duties as well as in other things. Then these saved men must carry their consecration with them into their citizenship to help save the nation at large. And this, in general, is Christian citizenship." Further refining Christian citizenship, the speaker outlined certain great principles of Christian civil government, the acceptance and practice of which by the individual will secure Christian citizenship. These principles are:

- 1 Government is responsible to God.
- 2 God is the source of authority in human government.
- 3 Christ is the ruler of nations, nations should learn to obey Him.
- 4 The Bible is the standard by which to determine moral issues in the political sphere.
- 5 Political leaders should study the Bible.
- 6 God has provided for the forgiveness of national sins through Jesus Christ.
- 7 The ideal nation is the Christian nation.

"Christian men," said Mr. Beeman, "must never compromise with evil and must do their duty in the government by voting only for good men and seeking the enactment of righteous laws. Religion has always had a place in our government. Let the principles of Jesus Christ prevail."

In the afternoon, Mr. Beeman spoke in the United Brethren church upon "Practical Patriotism," and in the morning he addressed the Presbyterian congregation at Shannonsdale.

The movement represented was organized in 1863. It has been doing a great work to further Christian government and moral reforms. It recently conducted the great world's Christian citizenship conference at Portland, Ore., where all these problems were discussed by speakers from all over the world. The National Reform Association of Pittsburgh is issuing a cloth bound volume report of that great gathering, a book containing a vast fund of information.—The Crawfordsville Journal.

A COMPROMISE IN THE CROSBY CASE

HILLIS & SHOPTAUGH THE LOCAL WELL DRILLERS, ARE GIVEN $400 AND EACH SIDE PAYS ITS OWN COSTS—CASE STARTED TRIAL LAST WEEK.

ORIGINAL BILL $362.50

Just before the time set for continuing the trial of Hillis & Shoptaugh, the local well drillers, against J. H. Crosby, of near Roachdale, in Circuit court this morning, attorneys for the parties notified Judge Hughes that an agreement had been reached and the case was dismissed.

By the terms of the agreement, Mr. Crosby pays Hillis & Shoptaugh $400 and each side pays their own court costs. The original bill of Hillis & Shoptaugh for drilling the well was $362.50. Mr. Crosby, alleging that the well was not what it should be refused to pay the bill, and Hillis & Shoptaugh filed a mechanics lien on his farm. The suit was to foreclose the mechanics lien. Beside the bill for the drilling of the well they asked $50 attorney fees and costs.

The trial was begun in the Putnam Circuit Court last week.

Fusionists War Over Candidate.

Here is another chance to pitch a coin. The Bull Moosers, who won the chance to name the fusion candidate for mayor, by pitching a coin, are at war. They are divided—hopelessly d-i-v-i-d-e-d.

Just to show how they could get together they held a little caucus the other night to decide on who they would honor with the nomination. The advocates of Charley Short were confident that their candidate would receive the unanimous and undivided support of all the party.

Bang! There was nothing doing. For W. T. Vermillion had gotten busy and had organized a "Me For Vermillion" Club. They argued pro and con but could not agree.

But Vermillion encouraged by his supporters, came out in the clear and now is a candidate.

The Short advocates still declare they will nominate their man. Vermillion, however, claims a majority of supporters in the caucus.

The Republicans are looking on with glee. What will the answer be?

MASONIC HOME COMMITTEE MEET WITH THE ARCHITECT

The members of the committee which will have charge of the remodeling of the Williamson property which will be made into a Masonic temple, met Tuesday night with Architect Gaddis of Vincennes, who was here to discuss plans with them. Tentative plans were gone over and discussed but nothing definite was done.

Meeting of Farmers' Club.

The Farmers' club of Putnam county met in the assembly room of the library Friday night. About forty members and visitors were present to hear the lecture on "Hog Cholera" by R. A. Craig, veterinarian of Purdue university.

Mr. Craig gave an excellent lecture on methods with which to care the disease. The talk was illustrated by charts and by Mr. Craig in his work. It was a thoroughly instructive talk and was appreciated by those present.

The club will have a series of lectures on modern farming methods, the last Friday in every month. These will be very instructive to farmers.

Burl Hurst, of Danville, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Della Hurst on Bloomington street. Mr. Hurst is employed as lineman on the Big Four.

WALTER COOPER OUT FOR MAYOR

FRIENDS OF FOURTH WARD DEMOCRATS ARE PUSHING HIM FOR THE NOMINATION—SAYS HE WILL ACCEPT PROVIDING PARTY WANTS HIM.

GILLEN WILL NOT ACCEPT

The friends of Walter Cooper, the Fourth Ward Democrat, are out today urging his nomination for mayor of Greencastle by his party at the convention to be held next Tuesday night. Mr. Cooper was consulted today regarding his accepting the nomination and stated that he would accept to lead the party in its city campaign provided he was the choice of the convention. He will make no fight for the nomination, literally being in the hands of his friends.

Since C. C. Gillen has decided that his business affairs will not permit his acceptance of the nomination for mayor by the Democrats, Mr. Cooper has been the most talked of as a probable leader for the party.

A business man of ability and a life-long worker in the Democratic ranks fits him as a most acceptable candidate. Today his friends are busy promoting his candidacy. The only other candidate who is being boosted to any extent is Squire Phillip Frank.

Other candidates who are being talked of by the Democrats of the town are George Dobbs and Frank Allen, for councilmen at large; S. C. Sayers and Ves Miller for clerk; George Sage for councilman from the First Ward; Al Phillips as councilman from the Fourth Ward; William Grogran as councilman from the Third Ward, and Clarence Vestal as councilman from the Second Ward.

"Drys" Hav Easy Victory.

The "drys" won in the election at Bedford yesterday by a majority of 192. The vote cast was 889 "dry" and 697 "wet," a total of 1,586, as compared with a total vote of 2,103 and a majority of only 97 two years ago. The "wets" who made strenuous efforts to have the election called fell down on their organization and their workers were few and indifferent.

JUDGE DISMISSES APPEAL OF "DRYS"

FINDS THAT THOMAS T. MOORE, ATTORNEY FOR ANTI-SALOON PEOPLE, WAS PREMATURE IN TAKING APPEAL FROM DECISION OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS—"DRYS" MAY APPEAL CASE TO THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISION WAS GIVEN TODAY

Following the decision of Judge James Hughes Monday morning, in which he dismissed the appeal of the "Drys" to the Circuit Court from the decision of the board of county commissioners in ordering a local option election, the "Drys" prayed an appeal to the Supreme court, and Judge Hughes gave them thirty days in which to make their record and file an appeal bond.

The decision read by Judge Hughes this morning was lengthy. He found, however, that the "Drys" had prematurely filed their appeal from the county commissioners, and sustained the motion of the "Wets" that the appeal be dismissed.

Judge Hughes's decision, in part, is as follows:

In re petition of John F. Cooper et al for local option election in the City of Greencastle, Indiana:

On the 30th day of June, 1913, John F. Cooper, et al, filed a petition in the auditor's office of Putnam county, Indiana, praying for a local option election to be held in the city of Greencastle, to determine whether or not intoxicating liquor should be sold in said city. At the July term of the Board of County Commissioners of said county said petition was presented to said board and said Board of County Commissioners found that said petition was signed by more than twenty per cent. of the legal and qualified electors and voters of the city of Greencastle, Indiana, and said Board of Commissioners fixed the 31st day of July, 1913, as the day for holding said election.

At the same time Joseph P. Allen, et al filed their affidavit that they were legal voters and tax payers of the city of Greencastle, and prayed an appeal to the circuit court. An appeal bond was filed and approved by said Board of County Commissioners and the appeal of said Joseph P. Allen et al, was granted, and all of said papers in said proceeding were certified to the Circuit Court.

The said cause was docketed in this court, being cause No. 8473. John F. Cooper et al, filed a motion to dismiss the appeal of Joseph P. Allen et al, in said cause from the Board of Commissioners and remand said cause back to said Board of Commissioners for the following reasons, to-wit:

First—For the reason the order of the Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana, from whom this appeal was taken, was an interlocutory order and not a final judgment that ended the proceedings before the board.

Second—For the reason that the Board of Commissioners of said county have never made a final order in said cause from which an appeal will lie.

Third—For the reason that the Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana, never made any order in said cause, appointing any election commissioners in said cause and never have made any order appointing any election inspectors and judges for the holding of an election in said cause.

Fourth—For the further reason that the county auditor of said Putnam County, Indiana, has never made out and filed any duly certified record of said cause, had and made before the Board of Commissioners of Putnam County, Indiana, from whom said appeal was taken.

The court does not consider the third and fourth reasons set out in said motion, for the reason that the question in this case can be settled and determined from a consideration of the first two reasons assigned in said motion.

The question to be decided in the case is whether or not the appeal by Joseph P. Allen, et al, in this cause was prematurely taken; in other words whether or not the election which was fixed by the Board of County Commissioners to be held on July 31, 1913, should have been held and the result declared by the Board of County Commissioners at their next ensuing term and then the appeal taken at that time, or whether the appeal was properly taken at the time the date was fixed for holding the election. In other words, was the order made by the County Commissioners, in fixing the date for the election, merely an interlocutory order, or was it a final judgment? If it was an interlocutory order, it must be conceded that the appeal was premature; if, however, a final judgment, then the appeal was properly taken.

It is contended on the one hand that the order made by the County Commissioners is a final judgment, and that all other acts which are set out in Section Seven of the Local Option Law are merely ministerial and not judicial acts, and upon a proper construction of said section is to be determined whether or not the appeal was properly taken.

It must be conceded without a citation of authorities that there must be a final judgment or order before an appeal can be taken, and, as has been decided, a judgment is not final unless all the issues of law and fact are determined, and the case completely disposed of so far as the court had power to dispose of it. It must dispose of the case as to all the parties and finally dispose of the subject matter of the litigation. A final judgment is the ultimate determination of the court upon the whole matter in controversy in the action; an order of the court made in the progress of the cause requiring something to be done or observed, but not determining the controversy, is an interlocutory order.

The general rule recognized by the courts of the United States, and by the courts of most, if not all, the states, is that no judgment or decree will be regarded as final within the meaning of the statute in reference to appeals, unless all the issues of law and of fact necessary to be determined were determined and the case completely disposed of so far as the court had power to dispose of it.

What is a ministerial duty or a ministerial act? It has been defined to be one which a person performs in a given state of facts in a prescribed manner in obedience to the mandate of legal authority without regard to or the exercise of his own judgment upon the propriety of the act being done. In other words, it is a duty in which nothing is left to his discretion; a duty performed by one acting under superior authority, or not with unlimited control, a simple definite duty, arising under conditions admitted or proved to exist and imposed by law, and absolute and imperative duty, the discharging of which requires neither the exercise of official discretion nor judgment.

A judicial act has been defined to be a judicial proceeding wherein an interested party is entitled to a trial or hearing, or, differently expressed, a judicial act is one involving the exercise of judicial power, by which is meant the power to hear and determine controversies between adverse parties, or questions in litigation; in other words, an official act, the result of judgment or discretion, is a judicial act.

The judge in his decision then gives many authorities to substantiate his theory that the order was interlocutory and not a final judgment.

The last paragraph of the decision is as follows: "The order, under the authorities cited, was merely an interlocutory order and not a final judgment, and therefore the appeal will not lie and must be dismissed."

SERVES 30 YEARS AS STATION AGENT

JOHN S. DOWLING ASSUMED DUTIES AS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE VANDALIA RAILROAD IN GREENCASTLE, ON OCTOBER 1, 1883.

HAS SEEN MANY CHANGES

Just thirty years ago, on October 1, 1883, John S. Dowling, the Vandalia agent in Greencastle began his duties in this town. Since assuming the duties of agent on that day he has continuously served as the agent for the Vandalia railroad in Greencastle.

There is not an official on the Vandalia now who was in office when Mr. Dowling took up his duties in Greencastle nor is there another station agent on the line who has a record of thirty years' service at one station.

During the thirty years Mr. Dowling has been in charge of the business of the railroad in this town, there have been many changes in the railroad and in the town.

ELKS ARRANGE TO GIVE A NEW MUSICAL COMEDY

The local Elks will stage a new musical comedy entitled, "The Landing Net," sometime in the near future. The committee composed of Reese Matson, Ernest Stoner and Neely O'Hair have announced the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Howe of Dowagiac, Mich. to instruct the amateurs who will take part in the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe are the same people that instructed the amateurs who took part in the "Careless Cupid," which was considered quite a success last year.

"The Landing Net" is a new musical comedy written by Mr. Howe this summer and will be seen in this city for the first time. The production will have a plot interwoven with solos and chorus songs. The immense chorus will feature in this play as it did in "Careless Cupid."

The Elks are lucky to obtain so able an instructor as Mr. Howe. He is experienced in stage work and makes chorus work his specialty. Mr. Howe is assisted by Mrs. Howe and a pianist who are equally efficient in stage work. Mr. Howe will have a complete line of costly costumes and beautiful scenery.

As yet the Elks have not set a date for the play but it will be produced in the near future.

While his automobile, which had broken down on the road, south of Cloverdale, was being hauled into Cloverdale by Charley McCamack, in another automobile, Joe Cochenour lost control of the broken down machine which he was steering and ran it into a post. As the result his machine was badly wrecked. Mr. Cochenour and a man by the name of Denowitz, who were in the machine, were severely shaken up and slightly cut and bruised in the accident. John Obenchain, who was standing near when the auto hit the post, was struck on the knees by the machine and slightly injured.

Several Greencastle people were on a eastbound traction car Sunday night which struck a buggy in which Oscar Young, age 20 years, was riding killing both the young man and the horse he was driving. The accident occurred at stop 41 near Harmony. The car, which hit the buggy, is due at Greencastle at 11 o'clock. It was in charge of Motorman Phillips and Conductor Farris, both of Terre Haute. It is believed that the young man was asleep and allowed his horse to walk upon the tracks. The body was taken to Brazil.

The new president of the Woman's Club, Mrs. S. A. Hays, invited the members to her home on Saturday afternoon for the opening meeting of the season. At 4 o'clock Mrs. Ogg, the retiring president, read a very clever original poem. She then presented Mrs. Hays who read an excellent paper on the club movement. At 6 o'clock the hostess served a beautifully appointed dinner to the twenty-eight members. The long tables were spread in the dining room and library. This club, with it more than 39 years of history, has had few meetings more enjoyable than this one.

OBITUARY.

Winfield S. Fellows, son of Warner and Charlotte Fellows, was born in Putnam county, Indiana, May 2, 1852; died Sept. 22, 1913; aged sixty-one years, and four months. He was married in 1872 to Nannie Harper. To them was born nine children—seven boys and two girls. One son and one daughter died some years ago. Mr. Fellows was in usual health up to within a few hours of his death. He was working in the field, cutting corn when he was suddenly stricken with apoplexy, instantly being rendered unconscious, from which condition he never rallied. He was taken into the care of neighbors and relatives who did all they could toward his recovery, but to no avail. He was not a member of any church but held to the faith and doctrine of the Universalists. He bore and deserved the name of being an honest, and upright man in relation to his fellowmen. He leaves to mourn their loss six sons and one daughter, together with relatives and neighbors who were his friends. Funeral services were held at the home of John Lewis Fellows at Manhattan after which he was buried in a grave in the cemetery nearby.

AUTOS COLLIDE SUNDAY NIGHT NORTH OF TOWN

The drivers of the two machines blinded by the glare of their headlights in a dense fog, the automobiles driven by William Houck of this town, and William Richey of Lebanon, collided Sunday night, just south of Pinecastle on the Crawfordville road, slightly damaging both machines.

Mr. Houck, with C. C. Gautier, James L. Randel and E. B. Taylor had been to Frankfort and were returning home when they met Richey who was on his way to Lebanon. A dense fog and the glare of the headlights blinded the drivers, and although Mr. Houck pulled his machine nearly into the ditch at the side of the road, Richey did not get far enough out on his side and the machines went together. The front axle of Mr. Houck's machine was bent by the impact and the front fender and running board badly bent. Richey's machine was only slightly damaged and he took the four men who were in the Houck machine and brought them to Greencastle. Luckily none of the occupants of the cars were injured.

THE PUMPKIN PIE CROP WILL BE VERY SHORT

"Come on early, you lovers of pumpkin pie, if you want to get in on the early crop of this delicacy."

That is the cry that might well be sent out to those who are fond of the toothsome pastry that comes as one of the blessings of autumn.

According to reports that have come from the farm, the supply of golden pumpkins this fall is far short of the usual crop, and the pies that are eaten with such a relish will not be so easy to get. The drought of the summer that cut short the corn crop also affected the pumpkin crop, and the supply will be short.

EAT THE THINGS THAT YOU WANT

To Eat When You Feel Like It, Says Government Experts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Beware of freak diets and of fakers calling themselves food experts; eat what you want when you feel like it, giving attention to cleanliness and wholesome cooking.

This is the official advice of the Department of Agriculture in a warning to the public issued as a result of an investigation just finished by government specialists into the operations of self-styled "experts in dietetics."

"Some of the advocates of freak diets are sincere, but are themselves deluded," says the warning. "Others are fakers who seek to make monetary gains by advising peculiar systems of diet. Neither class can offer trustworthy advice."

"Much of the supposed scientific advice now being sold for a price is really little more than folklore. A great many of the statements which are used as arguments by the experts for their diets have been traced by the government specialists and found to come from works on diet written so long ago as to be no longer considered of value except to the student of the history of dietetics."

44 SUICIDES IN AUGUST.

State's Figures Show 320 Deaths from External Causes.

Forty-four persons committed suicide in Indiana in August and homicides numbered sixteen. The total number of deaths from external causes was 320, according to figures made by Dr. Charles A. Carter, chief statistician of the state board of health. It is singular that a gun was not used by any person committing suicide although this was the favorite method of committing murder. Suicides resulted from poisoning, asphyxia, hanging, drowning and cutting instruments. Ten of the sixteen murders resulted from the use of firearms. Fifty-nine deaths resulted from railroad accidents and nine persons were killed in automobile accidents. The drownings were unusually large, numbering thirty-six. Seventeen died from the effects of heat.

ANOTHER DIVORCE SUIT IS FILED IN THE COURT

Another suit for divorce has been filed in the Putnam County Circuit Court. This time it is Bessie Pearl Doyel, of Russellville, who asks divorce from her husband. She gives non-support as the grounds for asking a divorce.

In her petition Mrs. Doyel says she married Charles M. Doyel January 24, 1900, and they lived together until June 26, 1912, when they separated. During their married life, she alleges, he failed to support her and that she was forced to depend upon her parents for support. Later she had to work for a living.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS

Many will question the amount of their taxes and ask concerning their personal property assessments and land appraisal. Mistakes will occur where the assessment of property and the extending and collecting of taxes are done by as many different officers.

The Treasurer and Auditor will cheerfully correct all mistakes for which they are responsible and the county assessor will explain the assessment of personal property and where possible adjust it in error.

Time is at hand for the paying of Fall taxes. You soon will find yourself in the Treasurer's office in a great crowd, awaiting to get to pay windows. Some will be in a hurry to make certain trains to get home. Why delay and cause yourself as well as the treasurer so much inconvenience?

If the second installment of taxes is not paid within the limit set by law, the taxes become due and delinquent and with penalty is extended by the Auditor and charged to the Treasurer. The state is interested in this extension and the Auditor and Treasurer are both personally liable for any penalties that might be refunded.

Under no circumstances can the Treasurer alter the duplicate. He can make no reduction in taxes and he can not refund money once paid in. Errors must be corrected through the Auditor's office.

As the Treasurer can not know the location of each person's property, tax payers should designate the property on which they wish to pay, and see that all property is included in their receipt. If they have land in more than one township or corporation, or desire to pay taxes on lands or lots not in their name, call the Treasurer's attention to the matter, carefully examine receipts, see if they describe all property (personal and real) and are otherwise correct before leaving the office, and if any errors are evident have them corrected at once.

The Tax Duplicate is not a transfer book and when, for any year, the Tax Duplicate is made with reference to the property on the first day of March said year, the duplicate remains forever unchanged as to showing of property and in whose books or prompt recording of deeds to the contrary notwithstanding.

Property will appear in same name for the payment of the second installment as for first. Assignees, Guardians, Administrators and others who pay taxes on property in trust and persons whose taxes are complicated, such as undivided estates, etc., are earnestly requested to settle such taxes before the last few days, as it requires considerable time to make divisions and separate receipts. Thus avoid mistakes which might happen during the rush of the last few days of taxpaying.

"All property, both Real and Personal, shall be liable for the payment of all taxes, penalties, interest and cost charged to the owner thereof in such county, and no partial payment of any such taxes, penalties, interest or costs shall discharge or release any part or portion of such property until the whole is paid, which lien shall in no wise be affected or destroyed by any sale or transfer of any such personal property, and shall attach on the first day of April, annually, for the taxes of such year."—From Section 173, Acts 181.

Special Notice. All Ditch Taxes and Street Improvements must be called for separately.

The taxpayer often has personal property and poll assessed to him separately from his real estate especially when the land is in joint title, and accordingly must have a receipt therefor.

Delinquent taxes must be paid before the current tax.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for penalties and charges on delinquent taxes, resulting from omission of the person, paying such tax to state definitely on what property, in whose name and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Very Respectfully,
ARTHUR L. REAT,
Treasurer Putnam County.

The Bull Moosers and Republicans met in the several wards Friday night and selected the committeemen for the coming city campaign. A Republican and a Bull Mooser were elected in each voting precinct which makes the committee consist of 12 members.

Following the selection of the committeemen, they met in the council chamber in the Fire Department and selected a city chairman, treasurer and secretary. A. O. Lockridge, Republican, was named chairman; E. W. Stout, Republican, was named treasurer, and W. T. Vermillion, Bull Mooser, was selected secretary. The committee also ordered that the committeemen call mass conventions in each voting precinct on the evening of Monday, October 6, to select delegates to the delegate convention, which will be held later to nominate a ticket.

The committeemen named in the several voting precincts are as follows:

First Ward.
James McD. Hays, Republican; Robert Hamrick, Bull Mooser.

Second Ward.
North Precinct—E. W. Stout, Republican; Harvey Reeves, Bull Mooser.

South Precinct—Walter Ashton, Republican; Dick Crouch, Bull Mooser.

Third Ward.
East Precinct—R. W. Shafer, Republican; Alec DeHart, Bull Mooser. West Precinct—Walter Myers, Republican; W. T. Vermillion, Bull Mooser.

Fourth Ward.
Charley Reeves, Republican; Omer Bates, Bull Mooser.

Frank T. O'Hair, a former DePauw man, and well known here, is known as the man who beat Uncle Joe Cannon.

O'Hair's Delay.

If the Hon. Frank T. O'Hair, representative in Congress from the Eighteenth Illinois Congressional District, cannot go safely to his constituents with his excuses for not being in Washington when the currency bill came to a vote, then that great and famous political division has lost its sympathy for humanity and its appreciation of the true joys, says the Chicago Tribune.

Mr. O'Hair called west on business, "stopped off to see the homefolks at Paris, Ill." He rode out to the farm of a friend. There was his bliss and his catastrophe.

"His orchard of wine saps was just ripe, the wild goose plums were never redder, and his elder mill was turning out the sweetest cider ever tasted. I ate and ate and drank and about midnight that night I was the sickening man in Illinois."

The Hon. O'Hair probably is full of Jamaica ginger now, but he need not be the prisoner of remorse. The Eighteenth district knows what a cider mill can do to a statesman.

Tariff on Diamonds Will Put the Price on Them Higher.

Young men who contemplate binding a matrimonial engagement with a solitaire will do well to hurry matters along a little.

Diamonds are going to advance soon, according to diamond importers who have just returned from a ten weeks' trip to Europe. The high cost of matrimony is going to advance still further.

These men spent considerable time in the diamond market in Tulip street, Amsterdam. They say there is every assurance that the tariff on diamonds, now amounting to 10 per cent, will be advanced to 20 per cent, before January 1st which will mean a corresponding increase in the retail price. The wholesale price has also advanced.

A white stone of good quality in karat size will doubtless sell at about three hundred dollars.

At the present time a similar stone sells at from $265 to $275. The advance in price of diamonds during the last eighteen months has amounted to about 15 per cent.

The average yearly increase for many years has been from 5 per cent, to 7 per cent.

A POISON CALDRON

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 25.—Beneath the interest in business at the Northwest M. E. Conference, is speculation as to what the changes in appointments will be. It is generally believed there will be a general shifting of ministers. The list will be read Monday.

One of the interesting features of the conference was the report of the Rev. James G. Campbell superintendent of the Greencastle district. He said there is little distinctive country work in his district, but that he has "tried to minister more efficiently to the rural churches."

He said: "Added to the factors that have hitherto wrought ruin to the country church may be named two others: the automobile—a temptation to the whole family to desert the church for the highway, and a decrease which may be called 'ecclesiastical fobia'—a fear of the church."

"We raise the cry, 'Back to the church! Revive again the church that made former generations such sturdy men of conscience, holding the balance of power and counteracting any baneful influence of corrupt cities. Without the country church the cause of God and good government will fail.'"

He took up the needs of the miners in his district, and said the shifting populations of the coal towns present a great problem for the church. He said:

"Last year, half the membership of our little church at Burnett moved out. This year, half the remainder followed. Six months ago the Fontanet church was prosperous. A few days ago when there, only one official of the church could be found."

"Terre Haute sinners," he said "still defy the militant hosts of the kingdom. Here the caldron of political and social poison boils and bubbles. Our pastors there are fearless leaders and have won some victories. Dr. Curnick has worked continuously against prevailing conditions. J. G. Benson, A. E. Monzer and other pastors were, within the last two weeks, called before the grand jury to testify concerning certain charges reflecting on men high in authority and on conditions involving the morals in the state normal school and Rose Polytechnic Institute. It happened that O. H. Leeson, our pastor at Trinity, sat on the August jury and the whole affair, instituted in malice, terminated most efficiently. This is a field of activity very inviting to the brave and judicious pastor but no place for the coward or time server."

The Northwest Conference is one of three in Indiana and the 336 churches that constitute it are in the northwestern part of the state. The value of the churches is $2,991,500, and there are 149 parsonages, valued at $383,100. There are 184 active pastors, whose aggregate salaries are $185,637. The total membership is 49,487 and 52,405 are members of the M. E. Sunday schools of the conference.

George H. Bainum, of Kansas City, Mo., with his daughter, were through here this afternoon in their Cole roadster on their way to their home. Mr. Bainum, who is a son of the late Rev. G. W. Bainum of Greencastle, Ind., was graduated from DePauw in the class of '85. He with his daughter had been in Indianapolis to get their car, which had been in the factory being overhauled, and on their way home stopped off in Greencastle so that Mr. Bainum might show his daughter the scene of his boyhood and the university which he attended. Mr. Bainum and daughter took dinner at the Commercial hotel and left this afternoon for Terre Haute. His father was pastor of the Presbyterian church here for many years.

Cloverdale Men Are Honored.

A. Grissom and John O'Mullane, Jr., of this place, received silver medals this week from the Monon for loyalty and high esteem of duty. The medals were accompanied by personal letters from President Harrison, which expressed his high regard for the men who steered duty.

The medals are presented to every employee who has been in the service of the Monon for twenty-five years or more.

The silver medal is the size of a silver dollar and bears on one side the likeness of old "Admiral," the original No. 9 engine that was once the pride of the road. On the opposite side is the engraved name of the honored man and the date of his entry into service.

Mr. Grissom has been section foreman for twenty-three years. He started on the road in 1890 at Whitesville. He was made foreman at Harrodsburg, from there he moved to Ellettsville then to Greencastle, and ten years ago located here. He had charge of an extra gang one year. During the twenty-three years as foreman he has missed only one pay day, and that was two years ago when he made a trip to Washington.

Mr. O'Mullane, commonly known as Uncle John, is 63 years old, and entered the service in 1869. His manner and conversation soon disclose the fact that he is an Irishman of the original type. He is one of the jolliest boys on the road and always has something to say that will make the hearer laugh. Mr. O'Mullane started on the road here, then took a job at Franceville and later relocated here. He has been watchman on Main street crossing for nearly ten years and during that time not a single accident has been placed to his credit. His duty is caution and watchfulness and these he performs with utmost care.—The Cloverdale Graphic.

Personal.

Mrs. Fenton Lawler and son have returned to their home in Noblesville after a short visit with relatives in this city.

Mrs. T. L. Jones, of Tampa, Fla., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. O'Hair for several days, has left for Paris, Ill., where she will visit before returning to her home.

Mrs. H. A. Sellers, who lives on East Seminary street, has been reported seriously ill.

W. W. DeMoss, of Winona, Ind., who has been working at the McWethy Laundry, resigned and left today for Chicago, where he will accept a position as overseer in a laundry in that city.

Arthur Kane, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kane, fell from a horse last Tuesday afternoon and received painful injuries. The lad had accompanied his companion, Vernon Cochenour, to water the horses and they decided to ride. Not being an experienced rider, Arthur was jolted off and lit on his head. He was rendered unconscious and has some bumps on his head that will remind him for several days of his ride.—Cloverdale Graphic.

For the first time in twenty-five years Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Hopkins of Lodi, Cal., visited with friends in Putnam county. Mrs. Hopkins, a former Putnam county woman, left Fillmore with her husband forty years ago and fifteen years later visited here. Thursday Dr. and Mrs. Hopkins visited Mrs. Sarah Jane Bowman and other friends in Fillmore. Friday they were here. While Greencastle they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hazlett and Mr. and Mrs. James Denny.

Daniel Knauer, of Putnam county, drove over in his new touring car Friday, accompanied by his brother, John, who is superintendent of the county line gravel road running from Vivida three miles south to the cross roads. The road will be completed this week and will no doubt be received by the two counties at the next session of commissioners court. Mr. Knauer found some difficulty in obtaining suitable gravel, but this was overcome. The road is constructed entirely of bank gravel.—Rockville Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones, who live one mile east of town, figured in an accident last Saturday night in which Mr. Jones was slightly injured and Mrs. Jones narrowly escaped. The two started to town in a carriage and were near the Smiley Martin home when they met a rig coming from town. Jones turned out but the night was very dark and the fellow was driving at a swift gait and evidently did not see the carriage. The front wheels crashed together, turning the buggy over and stopping the carriage so quickly that Mr. Jones was thrown out and got mixed up some way with the rigs. He was unconscious for a while and was badly bruised. An effort was made by Mrs. Jones to find out who it was that hit them, but the darkness prevented her seeing him and during the time the buggy was being put on its wheels he wouldn't talk, wouldn't even "cuss," so his name is unknown. A basket of three dozen eggs was being brought to town and when brought to light were found to be well scrambled.—Cloverdale Graphic.

The Foster family seems to be having its share of bad luck. H. C. Foster was thrown against the top of an automobile and received a skinned face, a mashed nose and some bumps on his head. Mr. Foster was enjoying a good smoke in the rear seat of a touring car, and Louis Morrison and Otto Sherrill occupied the front seat, when in crossing a bridge he came in contact with one of the top staves. The accident was not due to fast or careless driving. The approach of the bridge was in very bad condition and Mr. Foster was not watching the road and expected no bad jolt at the slow speed the car was being run.—Cloverdale Graphic.

The freshmen and sophomores of the local high school entertained the juniors, seniors and faculty Friday night. The building was decorated in the high school colors which were pink and black. Refreshments of ice cream cones were served.

Lawrence Bryan, son of James Bryan, left for Moline, Ill., Friday night, where he has accepted a position with the John Deer Manufacturing Co., of that city.

The New Hunting Laws.

The last legislature made several changes in the hunting laws which may be of interest, especially to sportsmen and farmers, at this time.

Contrary to the general belief, that the squirrel season does not close October 1st, but is extended to November 1st, from the fact that the last legislature made a change in the general closed season which formerly began October 1st, and continued until November 10th. During this period it was unlawful to hunt any kind of game except water fowl. This law was passed in 1905, but that section was repealed by the legislature and leaves in force the squirrel law of 1907, which made the open season for squirrels from July 1st to November 1st.

The quail season was shortened ten days by the last legislature. The open season for hunting quails is now from November 10th to December 20th; it formerly continued to January 1st. Under the new law the usual heavy hunting of quails during the holidays will be unlawful.

The legislature also enacted a new closed season for game which begins December 20th and continues to April 1st. During that period it will be unlawful to hunt any kind of game whatever except rabbits, which may be hunted until January 10th.

Under the state laws it was unlawful to hunt water fowl during the closed season, but congress recently passed a migratory bird act which prohibits spring shooting of water fowl. A summary for the open season for hunting game in this section is as follows:

Quail—November 10th to December 20th.

Waterfowl—September 1st to December 20th.

Rabbits—April 1st to January 10th.

BLAME VAN FOR THE FLOOD.

West Terre Haute People Bring Suit Against the Vandalia for Water Damages.

The Vigo Superior Court will determine whether the Vandalia railroad is responsible for the spring floods, or at least whether it is responsible for some of the damage caused when the old Wabash swelled up on itself and spread out in the bottoms. Suits aggregating $5,000 were filed yesterday against the company, claiming that the railroad grade forced the water back until it was broken.

WARDEN FOGARTY DON'T WANT JOB

Will Be Called on to Provide the Means for Electrocuting Two.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Sept. 26.—The State of Indiana is soon to kill two men and Warden Fogarty of the state's prison here is investigating the merits of the different electric chairs. Harry Rasco of Vincennes, who went to Terre Haute and shot down his wife and little daughter, and John Clarka, of Indiana Harbor, who loved his wife so much he could not bear to have her look at other men and therefore killed her, will test the new electric chair in the order their names are given here. The instrument of death will cost about $1,500.

Warden Fogarty had hoped he would never be called upon to kill a human being, he stated. He has never been called upon to hang anyone and the gallows used in Indiana for the last time six years ago when George William, colored, was strung up for killing a policeman, Warden Fogarty has never even seen an official killing. Capital punishment ought to be abolished in Indiana, Fogarty declared.

WILL LOCKWOOD TELLS OF CHINESE REBELLION

The following interesting letter has been received here by friends of Will Lockwood, a DePauw graduate, whose mother now resides here, who is general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Shanghai, China.

Shanghai, Aug. 13, 1913.

Dear Friends:—

When I wrote my last report letter I little realized that we would soon be thrust into the midst of a civil war, which has probably been better organized and marked by more bloodshed than the actual revolution of two years ago. Up to the present time the center of the fighting has been in and around Shanghai, and the scene of these operations only three miles from our association building.

No doubt full reports of the fighting have appeared in your papers and I need not dwell upon these. Every night for a week, the booming of the large guns and the rapid firing of the smaller guns were plainly heard by us and kept us wondering what was happening. Only at one time did our building seem in any danger. One night, when we were working there a piece of shell from one of the cruisers flew over the building and struck on the next street. While for a time things seemed uncertain, events have proved that there was very little danger to us living in the foreign part of the city.

The phase of the war that has attracted our attention and to which we have given our energies has been providing for the thousands of homeless refugees—whole families, men, women and children who were thrust suddenly into our section of the city from the troubled area. The fierce assaults on the arsenal took place over and adjoining a thickly congested area. The people in this section had practically no warning except that given by shells falling in their midst, and perhaps 200,000 men, women and children flocked into our settlement of Shanghai within twenty-four hours after the firing began. Many of these did not have time to bring with them as much as a piece of mapping or blanket on which to sleep. The hotels were crowded, shops and homes opened their doors, yet for the first few nights many had to sleep at the side of the streets and sit there all day in the hot sun.

The people of Shanghai were ready in their response to this call. A meeting was held in our association building and leading men, Chinese and foreign, came forward to aid in every possible way. A representative committee was formed, of which I had the privilege to be the secretary, and for more than two weeks we have worked hard to take care of these homeless people. Within a few days fourteen places of refuge were opened up, of which one of the first to open its doors was our gymnasium. There, on a floor 40 by 70 feet, from three to four hundred people, mostly women and children, slept for some nights. A large warehouse near our building was rented, where over seven hundred were housed and fed. The Chinese Guilds responded liberally by opening up their houses, which as a rule, are vacant except for two or three public meetings each year. The Bankers' Guild loaned its spacious Guild house where over seven hundred were provided for. Some of the churches opened for the refugees. Committees of ladies have served faithfully. The Municipal Council, through its departments of Health, Public Works and Lighting have given every facility and citizens, foreign and Chinese, have poured in money, in all about twenty-five thousand dollars—much more than we can use for this immediate need. The cooperation of the Guilds, the Chamber of Commerce and the foreign merchants have emphasized the oneness of the world when faced by a commanding need. Our association staff worked night and day, and to them much of the credit must be given. There have been some sad cases. The helpless people must have had to suffer. Several have died, and doubtless many will die as a result of these days, but many have doubtless been saved by these accommodations which were made possible by the refugee relief committee. Whole families, sometimes with three or four little children, were accommodated, and there were children in the refugees less than a month old. One baby was born during these days. For nearly two weeks we have had a family of over three thousand being housed and fed under our official care. Many others were provided for by those who had no connection with the committee. After military operations ceased on one side of the city, people returned, but the very same day the fighting began on the opposite side of the city, and the country people from that crowded district came into Shanghai seeking refuge, so our accommodations have been used by people fleeing from both directions, but at different times.

This has been a work that we have greatly enjoyed even though it has been in the midst of summer when vacation is the rule. It has identified our association closely with the needs of the city, and allowed us to render a service which has given us much joy.

While we do not believe that the present rebellion was without basis of reason, yet the leaders were certainly ill-advised. We do not anticipate the trouble will last long. Already the principal leaders have fled and there seems no hope of success. Our hearts sorrow for the devastation caused to the poor helpless people, many of them soldiers who had no actual sympathy with the war, but simply have been creatures of unfortunate circumstances.

Very sincerely yours,
W. W. LOCKWOOD.

A LOG CABIN GAVE THE TOWN ITS NAME

Greencastle. Where did the town get its name?

Do you know? Well here it is.

The Herald is in receipt of a letter from E. C. Morris of Windsor, Ill., a former Putnam county man, who tells a most interesting tale of how the town got its name. Mr. Morris, who is 84 years old is the father of Mrs. Anna Sprinkle of this town. Mr. Morris says that his mother saw the first house that was built in Greencastle. It was built of logs from Buckeye trees. During the wet warm spring the logs of the cabin sent out long green sprouts. The peculiar appearance of the cabin, caused it to be christened Greencastle, by other settlers. And when the town began to grow it was called Greencastle.

Mr. Morris was a boy when the only hanging charged to the town occurred. A man by the name of Thompson was hung to a large tree in south Greencastle for killing a man by the name of Rinearson. He remembers the event well, especially does he remember that it occurred on a very cold day.

Mrs. Jennie Miller of Greencastle will entertain Sunday with a dinner party, having as her guests from this city, Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Miller and daughter Miss Hallis, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hudson and little Ethel Wells of Carbon—Brazil News.

Mrs. Lizzie M. Good, of Fullerton, Cal., died Friday morning at her home in that city. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Fullerton was the daughter of Mrs. D. L. Harris of this city, and was well known here.

PIANOS REQUIRE VERY MUCH CARE

"I have been amazed," said Maud Powell, the American violinist, the other day, "at the lack of care the average piano owner gives his instrument. Though a piano may be bought by some merely as a parlor ornament, it certainly should receive as good care as its owner bestows on his French mirror."

"When buying a piano many persons are more exacting than we violinists are in selecting a violin, and goodness knows we are particular enough."

"They look at a piano almost with a magnifying glass, as though they were buying diamonds, to see if there is the slightest defect in the varnish. They try every key from bass to treble and find perhaps, or fancy they find, one key the tone of which they think is not quite right."

"But when they finally do buy and the piano is placed in their home, what a change."

"The French mirror bought at the same time is carefully and frequently cleaned."

"But how about the piano? Too often I find beautiful instruments setting snug up against cold, damp outside walls, one end, perhaps, close to a hot radiator, the other against a cold window or door, while the top is covered with jarring picture frames and a miscellaneous assortment of 'things' which, even if ornamental, certainly have no place on the top of a beautiful piano."

ECONOMY AIDED BY MODERN LINGERIE

The woman of limited income has certainly been benefited by modern ideas in underwear, for her stock need not be half as large as it was in the old days.

Combinations of corset covers and skirt-drawers eliminate the necessity for the separate short petticoat that was a favorite garment with our mothers—although sometimes omitted because of its cost.

Today combinations give us this in one with the drawers, and we are at once nicely and economically dressed. If one has a few combinations made with merely straps of ribbons or narrow bands over the shoulder, they will answer for use with evening gowns and do away with the chemise.

Then almost every one has substituted soft silk petticoat tops with removable flounces put on with beading for separate long lingerie skirts.

Importation of Bumble Bees.

There have been numerous items in the newspapers to the effect that the United States Department of Agriculture was sending consignments of bumble-bees to the Philippines. We wrote to Dr. Phillips, of the Bureau of Entomology, requesting that, if he were unable to give us authentic information on the subject, he turn our letter over to the proper official in the Department. This he did, and a reply from Mr. Webster, in Charge of Cereal and Forage-plant Insect Investigations, gives us the facts. The letter in part is:

On the government transport sailing from San Francisco on November 5, there was shipped a second consignment, this time packed in small refrigerator baskets, and in the care of two Philippine government students who are returning home from the United States. The bees are being collected by one of my assistants, Mr. W. J. Phillips, in the vicinity of Richmond, Ind.; and as soon as they are taken they are at once placed in cold storage and will be kept in a dormant condition until they are placed on board the transport, with the result that they have been put to sleep in Indiana and will wake up in Manila. Just what they will do over there remains to be seen; but the expectation is they will fertilize the common red clover which the government is introducing into those islands. The transportation is being carried out by this bureau in co-operation with the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department.

Merciful.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

SAND ASPHALT ROADS.

Property Owners of Jacksonville Trying the California Plan.

Property owners of Jacksonville, Florida, have begun trying what has become known as the California plan of making good roads by mixing oil, heavy with asphalt, with the earth or the sand of the highways. These property owners paid for grading about a mile and a half of road, which was later scored or furrowed deeply by a machine having long teeth. Immediately behind this machine followed one which carried the oil, which was heated enough to make it flow freely down into the little furrows in the sand. After that came another machine having long teeth which raked back and forth across the first furrows, and so mixed the warm oil and the sand.

When this operation was completed a roller heavy enough to put a weight of 250 pounds to the square inch on the road, and studded with spikes eight inches long and from an inch a half to two inches in diameter at the base, went repeatedly over the oiled road. It is said that these spikes ran their whole length into the sand in the first rolling, and that at each following rolling the spikes sank less and yet less into the road, until it became so solid that they made no impression upon it.

It is said that this sand and the asphalt of the oil combine chemically to form a coating or surfacing which is impervious to water, hard enough to resist the wear of heavily loaded wheels, the wash of rains and the pounding of steel-shod hoofs; also that its color is restful to the eyes of man and beast.

This experiment with Florida sand if lastingly satisfactory, should be of much interest and value to people who use highways of water worn sand, as, for example, the sandy roads of the south shore of Long Island, of the western and the northern shores of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan, and many other places in this country. It is declared that such oiled roads may be made at small cost.—Good Roads Magazine.

Jailers Conspiring Against the People

From Virginia comes the story that the people of that State demand that their convicts shall be put at work on the highways, instead of being permitted to rest in jail and idleness at the expense of the public.

It is alleged further that Virginia jailers are conspiring to defeat the avowed purpose of the people to have their laws so changed as to require the courts to condemn their convicts to serve terms at road making, instead of giving them terms in prison. The reason for this alleged conspiracy is that the revenues of the conspirators, servants of the people, would be reduced by the proposed change. That such change would reduce the expenses of the people is another story, to which the jailers may feel complete indifference.

The Virginian question seems to be: Shall the jailers permit their profits to be cut down—perhaps consent to serve for their mere salaries; or shall the people who employ the jailers get the services of the convicts, for whose offenses the public suffers, and for whose conviction and keeping the people pay?

Tarring Roads in Great Britain.

Dust prevention and preservation of macadam highways is a subject of deep concern in Great Britain and on the Continent, as it is in this country also; therefore interest will be felt in the account which tells of the spraying with tar of thirty miles of highways for the corporation of Birmingham, England.

While spraying a road the corporation closes either one-half or the whole of it to traffic, thus giving the tar time to penetrate before traffic is permitted to go on the freshly tarred part. After the second coat of tar has been put on, the road is covered with granite chips, which make an even surface and prevent the road from becoming slippery.

A number of roads thus treated have been opened to traffic on the day of application of the tar, the second coat of tar having been put on within an hour after the first was applied; but it is usual to allow a day to pass between the two applications.

The project to construct a boulevard for automobiles between Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y., has been taken up by the Buffalo Automobile Club. E. R. Thomas, the well-known manufacturer of automobiles, has been appointed chairman of a committee to take the matter up.

State Engineer George W. Cooley, of Minnesota, was recently quoted as saying that he was convinced that there was no reason why good gumbo roads cannot be built. "The gumbo road built last year near Crookston," he stated "is now in excellent condition and has been every day during the year in which it has been in use."

Putnam County Young Folks Wed

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Lloyd, near Morton, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening, Sept. 24th when their daughter, Miss Thressa, became the bride of Foster H. Wimmer of Bainbridge, son of Lincoln Wimmer.

About thirty of the near relatives gathered to witness the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Bratton of Bainbridge.

The rooms were adorned throughout with pink and white, club colors of the bride. Mrs. George Ratcliff, aunt of the bride, played "Melody of Love," "Love's Consolation," and "Love's Confiding" during the ceremony.

Miss Lloyd's gown was white silk crepe de chine combined with shadow lace and silk brocade satin. The young couple received many nice and useful presents.

Following congratulations refreshments were served consisting of brick tea cream and cake.

Miss Vern Lloyd, sister of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

Those attending from a distance were Mrs. Leon Levy and Mrs. Chas. Frank of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Julia Ratcliff and daughter Mary of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Zed Ratcliff of Brazil, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Obenchain, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Thomas and son Lloyd William of Greencastle.

The bride and groom left immediately to make their home with the groom's father the coming winter.

DePauw Graduate Plays Detective

About the time DePauw opened last fall, two young men, good appearing, and having the appearance of new students, arrived in Greencastle. The boys were friendly and rapidly made acquaintances.

One boy, representing himself as a brother of Walter Bundy, a former DePauw student, who had the confidence and respect of many business men and university folk. Through this representation he managed to buy a cap at the Hub Clothing store. Price $1. Two dollars were borrowed from Prof. Caldwell by the boys. Two dollars from J. O. Cammack and $2 from Carl Thompson, another student. The lads represented that they were without funds but would get some money within a few days.

To secure a place to sleep they went to the Sigma Chi house and represented themselves as brothers of a Purdue Sigma Chi. The Sigs here provided them with a room and board. This all happened in two days. Then they disappeared and it was learned that they were no way related to Mr. Bundy.

Wednesday night the boys were here again. But they had not come on their own choice. They were only a short time. And while here they gave H. C. Allen, Jr., a signed statement admitting that they had obtained money and credit under false pretenses. They also left $6.50 with Mr. Allen to settle their obligations.

It was Mr. Bundy who played detective and solved the mystery. After completing his work in the Boston School of Theology last year he came back to Greencastle to visit friends. While here he saw those who had been fleeced by the lads and secured from them a description of the boys.

He was not long in deciding that two boys, Forest Valentine and Chalmers Valentine, then living at his home town, Spiceland, were the guilty ones. He went home and after some clever detective work proved that his theory was right.

Then he took the matter up with the boys father and with Mr. Allen. The father agreed to pay the bills, but to this Mr. Allen would not consent. He insisted that the boys come to Greencastle; make a statement exonerating Mr. Bundy and personally pay the money they had obtained. Rather than suffering the legal consequences the boys came to Greencastle and did as requested.

STRANGER LOOKED LIKE

INDIANAPOLIS MURDERER

A stranger, who acted queerly, and who is believed to be the man wanted for the murder of Joseph Shalansky, an Indianapolis merchant, who was found dead in a room in the Onelda Hotel Monday night with a heavy cord looped around his neck, is believed to have been in Greencastle Tuesday evening.

The man visited the Timmons Barber shop and got a shave. Two of the barbers in the shop and a patron, the latter who had just read a description of the murder in the Indianapolis News, noticed the similarity of the man to the description and talked of it after he left the shop.

The young man seemed very nervous while he was in the shop. He talked continually while in the barber chair, asking many questions about Greencastle. Both William Sillery, who shaved the man, and Harry LaRue, another barber, noted the resemblance.

Evidently he went from Greencastle to Brazil. The Brazil Times in telling of the man says:

"City Attorney Frank A. Horner, who talked to the stranger, was convinced on seeing the picture of the murderer in the Indianapolis Star, that he was the man wanted."

"Mr. Horner met him on the street and fell into a conversation with him in which he praised Brazil as being a nice city, and said that he would like to live here. He said that he came in from Greencastle on the traction line and left the car at the Central Indiana crossing on East National Avenue."

"A few minutes later, he entered the Davis Hotel and purchased a copy of the Indianapolis Star from Day Clerk Hoffman. On seeing the picture on the front page, Mr. Hoffman says that he became very nervous, folded the paper so that the picture could not be seen and shoved it in his pocket. He then asked for a copy of the Indianapolis News and when told that there was none, he hurriedly left the hotel."

"A man, who followed him up the street, saw him stop on a corner, open the Indianapolis Star and look at the picture and was reading the article about the murder. The watcher's attention was attracted to another point for a moment and when he turned back the stranger was gone and nothing more was seen of him. Mr. Hoffman stated that he answered the description of the murderer with the exception that his hair was dark instead of light, but he could have easily dyed his hair. His clothes answered the description as did also a soft gray hat which he wore.

"Chief Brown was notified and shadowed a stranger, who is not believed to be the same man. Chief Brown stated that the man he shadowed did not answer the description and that he left on an east bound car."

Dr. W. M. McGaughey Says No.

There has been some talk of the Pull Moosers nominating Dr. W. M. McGaughey as the candidate for mayor. When seen this morning regarding the matter Dr. McGaughey said "No. Why I would not accept the nomination if the Democrats, Pull Moosers and Republicans would all fuse and put only one ticket in the field."

Rev. L. A. Beard and family will move from the Christian church parsonage to part of the residence of Mrs. Sarah Nutt on the corner of College avenue and Poplar street this time as pastor of the Christian church expires Oct. 1st.

DISEASE AND DEATH IN INDIANA IN AUGUST

The monthly bulletin of the State Board of Health just issued in regard to disease and death for the month shows that a slight increase in both is to be noted when compared with August of 1912. The bulletin also states that typhoid fever exists to a degree at least 30 per cent. greater than in August of the preceding year. Typhoid fever was reported from 75 counties, 409 cases and 112 deaths. This is really a disgraceful record for this disease is a filth disease and it means that the people of Indiana are not clean. Indiana has an annual typhoid rate of 31 in 100,000. London, England, has a typhoid rate of only 4 in 100,000. In other words, London is a much cleaner city than the State of Indiana. Denmark has a typhoid rate of only 1 person in 100,000, and this is the result of cleanliness.

Diphtheria was reported present in 41 counties, 195 cases with 36 deaths. This is an increase over the same month last year.

Scarlet fever was reported present in 28 counties. There were 1.5 cases reported, and probably twice as many not reported. There were 6 deaths from scarlet fever.

Smallpox was reported present in 13 counties. There were 65 cases and no deaths.

Infantile Paralysis was reported present in 15 counties. There were 23 cases and 6 deaths.

Cancer is on the increase. There were 153 deaths reported from this cause. It would be a profitable investment to the State of Indiana to spend $1,000,000 if necessary to discover the cause and prophylaxis of cancer. When we lose good citizens at the rate of 6 a day on account of one disease the situation is serious. And especially is it serious when there is no effort made on the part of the government to discover the cause. To study out the cancer problem would require a special laboratory with not less than two skilled pathologists constantly studying the disease. We presume when the people get tired of dying of cancer and persons high in influence are visited with the disease that something will be done to try to understand and suppress it.

Deaths—Total number of deaths, 3,155; rate 12.4. In the same month last year, 2,896 deaths; rate 12.4.

Births—Total number of births 4,737; rate 19.1. Males, 2,300; females, 2,387. Total number of births to date for this year, 30,066.

Democrats Hold Rousing Caucus

That the Democrats of Greencastle are determined to nominate a ticket, which when elected, will give the city a business administration, was clearly shown Wednesday night when approximately 100 party men gathered in the Grand Jury room of the courthouse to discuss the coming campaign.

The meeting was called by City Chairman Charley Kelley so that the party men might discuss the campaign. The decision of a former caucus that a mass convention be held on Oct. 7, was unanimously endorsed by those present Wednesday night.

Among those present Wednesday night were Uncle Elijah Grantham, age 74, and Uncle Lewis Steward, age 87, two pioneer Democrats, and each gave those present some fitting advice, regarding the nomination of a ticket. C. C. Gillen also spoke briefly. The general trend of the speeches was that Greencastle was in need of a business administration and that unless the Democrats nominate a ticket which will fulfill this requirement the party had best not attempt to elect a ticket.

The meeting was one of perfect harmony and similarity of opinion. The Democrats are enthusiastic in their desire to nominate and elect a city administration which will pull Greencastle out of the rut. And if the Democrats do as they said they would do at the meeting Wednesday night, then Greencastle will be pulled out of the rut.

There was no coins pitched at the meeting Wednesday night.

During the evening the first ward Democrats held a meeting and elected George Sage as committeeman from that ward, to succeed George Wilson, who has moved into the second ward.

R. L. O'Hair, Fred O'Hair and James L. Randel, of the Central National Bank, were in Indianapolis Wednesday night to attend the beef steak dinner and smoker given at the German house for the members of the Indiana Bankers' Association. A vaudeville performance was given during the evening.

L. O. Kelley, manager of the Lyric Moving Picture Show is eating eggs three times a day now. Its scrambled eggs for breakfast, boiled eggs for dinner and fried eggs for supper. The reason is this. Last Saturday he gave a moving picture show matinee, admission for which was one egg. The young folks were attracted by the novel admission price and when the day's receipts were counted up there were 15 dozen and one egg in the cash box. Next Saturday afternoon Mr. Kelley will charge on "good sized potato" as admission to the show and he will give a prize of 50 cents for the largest potato.

Ernest Vermillion has returned to his home in Indianapolis after a short visit with relatives near Mt. Meridian. Miss Helen Torr left Wednesday night for Linton, N. D. where she will teach this winter.

Night policeman Arthur Stone was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hurst on east Franklin street between 1 and 2 o'clock Wednesday night by Mr. Hurst, who detected someone who was trying to raise a window, presumably to get into the house. Mr. Hurst scared the intruder away and the officer could find no traces of him when he reached the scene.

Miss Margaret Harlan, of Louisville, Ky., entertained at luncheon Tuesday for Mrs. Ethel Shepard of Greencastle, who is the guest of Miss Nell Jennings on east Broadway. Mrs. Shepard is enroute to Nashville, Tenn. where she will enter the Ward Belmont Woman's College.

A number of friends and relatives surprised Mrs. C. R. Dulin, who lives near Elmdale, with an unexpected gathering Friday evening. A bountiful supper was served by the guest who brought well filled baskets. The evening was spent in conversation and playing old-fashioned games. Mrs. Mary Anderson and Mrs. Clara Sorenson have returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in the south.

Trial of a suit to foreclose a mechanics lien, in which suit Hillis & Shoptaugh, of this city, are the plaintiffs and J. H. Crosby, of near Roachdale, is the defendant, was begun in the Putnam Circuit Court Friday.

Originally contracted with Mr. Crosby, to drill a well on his farm. They were Hillis & Shoptaugh in their complaint, allege that in March 1912, they well and were to drill until instructed by Mr. Crosby to quit.

They further allege that they drilled to the depth of 200 feet when they were instructed to cease drilling. The cost for drilling 200 feet at the agreed price was $362.50. Mr. Crosby failed to pay the amount and a mechanics lien on his property, to force payment of the amount, was filed.

A marked increase in the quantity of livestock grazed on national forest ranges during the past fiscal year is reported by the forest service. Nine and a half million domestic animals have been occupied during the summer in converting one of the by-products of the forests into meat, hides, and wool. In addition, there were in round numbers three hundred thousand calves and colts and five million lambs and kids exempt from permit and therefore not enumerated.

According to the figures gathered, the amount of stock grazed under permit during the year is over four per cent. greater than for the previous year, while the number of permittees using the forests for pasture purposes was increased from 26,501 to 27,466. The total receipts by the government from grazing fees for the twelve months ending June 30, 1913, were $1,007,739, and the portion of this applied to schools and roads in the states in which the national forests are situated is about $352,708.

Grazing is second only to lumbering as a principal use of the national forests. Practically all of the national forests used extensively for grazing purposes are within the eleven states extending east from the Pacific Coast, known as the "far western group." These states contain, according to latest reports, 8,546,000 cattle, 2,810,000 horses and mules and 28,366,000 sheep. The national forests support in these states 17 per cent. of the total number of cattle grazed, 3.48 per cent. of horses and mules, and 27.5 per cent. of sheep. It is estimated that the annual product of these animals is 300,000 head of beef cattle of various ages and grades and 5,000,000 head of lambs and mutton sheep.

Since the average net meat weight of a beef animal is 515 pounds, of a lamb 37 pounds, and of a sheep 52 pounds, the stock grazed on national forests in the eleven far-western states produce annually about 155 million pounds of beef and 312 million pounds of mutton. In addition, it is said the wool grown totals 55,000,000 pounds, hides approximate 300,000 in number, and pelts 5,000,000. This output, according to the forest service, does not involve any material sacrifice of forest or watershed protection or permanent forage productivity on the national forests. The system of range management applied by the government has proved it is claimed, effective and simple and the quality and quantity of the national forage crop is said to be improving each year.

FOREST NOTES.

The railroads of the United States use about 150,000,000 wooden ties each year.

Cadillac, Mich., is reported to be the foremost city in the country for varied and close utilization of forest products.

More than one-fourth of all the sheep in the eleven states nearest the Pacific coast are grazed on the national forests.

The national forests contain water powers with an aggregate estimated capacity of 12,000,000 horsepower available for use under permit from the secretary of agriculture.

Much of the piling, wharf material and lock gates of the Panama canal are made of greenheart, said to be the most durable wood known for these purposes, which comes mainly from British Guiana.

The western forestry and conservation association will hold its annual conference about December 15. This year it will meet at Vancouver, B. C., and will give its main consideration to the problem of forest fire prevention and control.

FARM COMMISSION TO BE HERE NEXT WEEK

The State Penal Farm Commission, which will select a site for the State Penal farm, is expected to visit Greencastle within a few days and examine two local sites which have been offered. The commission recently informed the Greencastle committee that it would be here about the first of October.

Elam Denny and David Hughes, who have done most of the work in securing options for the sites, and who have been active in booming the local sites with the commission members, stated this morning that they would not be surprised if the commission members got here as early as next week.

They cannot come too soon for the local committee as it has everything in readiness to show the sites to good advantage. Blue prints have been made of each of the sites and descriptions of all the lands prepared. Data has been prepared and all is in readiness to show the commission members that Greencastle can offer the best location to be found in Indiana.

PROGRAMS AND SUGGESTIONS FOR FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Following the proclamation of Governor Ralston, urging the observance of October 9, as Fire Prevention Day in Indiana increased interest in fire prevention has sprung up throughout the state. Inquires from school superintendents and interested business men are coming into the office of Fire Marshal Longley daily, asking for information and suggestions concerning the day and observance.

It is the intent of the fire marshal to cooperate in every way possible with schools and organizations which are planning to observe Fire Prevention Day in some public manner. To this end the office has had printed a number of extra copies of the governor's proclamation. It is suggested that the proclamation be read in every school in the state in observance of the day.

In addition, small leaflets have been prepared which contain suggestions for business men's meetings in the interest of fire prevention. Programs of a somewhat similar nature have also been prepared for use in the school room. In these the children are given a prominent part in bringing home the various lessons which bear upon the fire protection. Supplementing the small leaflets, the fire marshal's office is also supplied with more complete programs, containing plans for city parades, and outlines for tableaux to be presented at public meetings. Copies of the leaflets or programs may be obtained by addressing the State Fire Marshal, at Indianapolis.

In the effort to cooperate with Fire Marshal Longley, the executive committee of the Indiana State Fire Prevention Association has mailed letters to all its members and field agents regarding Fire Prevention Day and its observance. The Indiana State Fire Prevention Association has a membership of approximately 100, made up of insurance field men and others interested in fire insurance and fire prevention. Their letter says:

"The undersigned members of your Executive Committee believe that all of the field men should use their best efforts, personal and otherwise in the direction of getting agents as well as others to take an increased interest in fire prevention, and to use their best influence in bringing the public into sympathy with it. We feel that everyone should be impressed with the necessity of cleaning up accumulations of rubbish, making an examination of flues, and stove pipe arrangements, and seeing that safe metal receptacles are provided for the temporary disposal of ashes, the careful storage of their winter fuel, and to make Fire Prevention Day a 'Clean-Up-Day.' This interest and activity will result in seeing that premises are kept in safe condition with view to the prevention of fires throughout all the other days of the year."

"The committee does not doubt that this will have your hearty cooperation in a personal way, and that you will make early request for a supply of the bulletins for distribution, as indicated to the end, that the great fire waste of the state may be lessened."

The letter is signed by C. J. Richmond, president of the association; and J. B. Cromer, member of the executive committee.

Bulletins and copies of the governor's proclamation will be mailed by the state fire marshal to the various members of the State Fire Prevention Association. It is the hope of Fire Marshal Longley to supply the information possible, so that Fire Prevention Day may be of the widest possible educational value to citizens throughout the entire state.

How to Cure Cholera Morbus.

Many cases of this disease result fatally before medicine can be obtained or a physician summoned. It is easily cured when the proper remedy is at hand. Mrs. Charles Stewart of Mt. Collins, N. Y. says: "When my husband had cholera morbus last summer he used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it cured him promptly." Every family should keep this remedy at hand. It only costs a quarter. For sale by all dealers.

NICKLES NOT SPURIOUS.

Even If They Have a Funny Look About Them.

Needless fears of supposedly counterfeit nickels, it was stated by secret service officials, is disturbing many people throughout the country. Complaints of counterfeiting are pouring into the treasury department, but Acting Chief Herman Moran says the apprehension is due to unfamiliarity with the fact that the department recently made a slight change in the new coins. In the revised design the words "five cents" are brought in greater relief than in the original.

The difference gives rise to reports of counterfeiters.

A REVOLUTIONARY

SOLDIERS DEATH

Uncle Wesley Banks, one of the best known and highly respected citizens of the county, died at the home of his son, at Dr. Banks, five miles south of Centerville, about noon Sunday, aged 88 years and 27 days. The immediate cause of his death was due to a severe attack of summer trouble, but for the past thirteen years he has been an invalid as the result of an injury sustained in a fall.

Mr. Banks was one of the old war heroes of the country, having served in the Mexican war. To be a son of the American Revolution is an honor in itself, but to the only man in Iowa whose father was a soldier of the revolutionary war carries with it a far greater honor. Such is the distinction borne by him.

Several sons of revolutionary sires have lived in Iowa, a fact not at all strange when it is remembered that at least eight, and probably ten soldiers of the revolution passed their declining days in Iowa and have been buried in Iowa soil. But Mr. Banks was the last survivor of the "real sons" in Iowa.

William Banks, the father of Wesley Johnson Banks, was born in Culpepper county, Virginia, June 23, 1762. He enlisted in the patriot army at Amherst county, Virginia, and served six months as sergeant in Captain's Polin's company of Colonel Richardson's regiment under command of Baron Steuben, and was in service through the war. Linn Banks and William Brown, his grandfathers, were also in the service for American freedom. That several of his relatives were in the war of 1812 shows that the family were fighting stock. For fourteen years Wesley lived in daily, hourly touch with one who was true in "days that tried men's souls," and absorbed from his father his patriot zeal.

Wesley Johnson Banks, when he was born in Gerrard county, Kentucky, July 28, 1825, thus inherited fighting qualities which were sure to assert themselves in time. The father, William Banks, died in 1839 in Putnam county, Indiana, having moved from Kentucky some time before.

The young Wesley, being full of the fire of youth, and true to the warlike spirit of his ancestors, enlisted in the First Indiana regiment when the Mexican war came on, as did his brother, Joseph. Young Banks served faithfully and efficiently in the Mexican war and on receiving his discharge at its close at once enlisted in the regular army and marched with the troops sent to California, remaining in the service in California until he received an honorable discharge March 31, 1849. He returned home in 1851 via Panama and New Orleans.

In 1852 he married Nancy Wells Talbot, and they came to Appanoose county in 1864. There were eight children of whom four are dead. Mrs. Banks died Dec. 18, 1896, and is buried at Oakland cemetery. The living children are four sons, W. E. of Loveland, Colo.; T. W. D. V. and F. T. of this vicinity.

In his young manhood Mr. Banks stood six feet tall was of commanding presence and pleasing person. His eighty-eight years did not cloud his mind nor leave him without interest in men and events and his mind was a well filled storehouse of knowledge gathered through his four score and eight years.

He became a member of the Iowa society of the Sons of the American Revolution in July, 1897, and it is with pride that the society carries his name upon its rolls.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 1:30 at the home, conducted by Rev. J. H. Carr, of the Christian church, attended by the G. A. R., Spanish-American war veterans and the D. A. R. The remains were laid to rest in Oakland cemetery—Centerville, Iowa, Exchange.

A STATEMENT BY

SQUIRE IDDINGS

Editor Greencastle Herald:

I want to make a short reply to an article in the Greencastle Herald headed "Failed to turn in collections." The very heading of this article is misleading in the extreme, and will deceive many honest people. There never was a dollar paid to me on a judgment on any docket in my office, that was ever kept back by me from the one entitled thereto, if such person came to my office and filled the requirements of law, by signing up the docket and receiving me for the same, so as to give me my legal protection.

When E. D. Montgomery went before the Grand Jury and made oath that I had money of his, which I had refused to pay over to him, when he had signed up for the same as others do, he then and there made a statement that he cannot prove, and which I will disprove. There never was a dollar of the judgment referred to, held back from him, only for the purpose of getting his signature to the docket for my protection, just as the county clerk holds money till the parties take the steps legally to take it out of his hands. I cannot pay out these judgments without the proper receipt on my docket, just as the county clerk cannot pay out judgments on his docket, till the docket is receipted. If he does, it is at his peril, and the proceedings now taken by E. D. Montgomery in this case, show that such payment would have been at my peril.

It was the duty of E. D. Montgomery to come and sign up my docket for this money, or to send some duly authorized persons to so sign up. My docket is at my residence where I hold my office, and Mr. Montgomery never was at my house, or on my premises, or ever saw the judgment in any form, or ever offered to sign up the docket for the same. A. D. Greggs confessed the judgment for the purpose of saving costs, and paid it as he could afterwards. E. D. Montgomery knew this money was here, and all he had to do was to come to my office and get it. The money has always been there for him. I have only one thing to regret, and that is that I ever paid into bank for the parties one cent of this money till they came to my office and signed the docket. If I had known what the scheme was no part of this money would have been paid into the bank. I now know the object of all this and I know it is dominated by a spirit of revenge for other things that have occurred. The law does not require me to go around the county hunting up people who have judgments on my docket to pay the money collected over to them. The law presumes that I hold the money as any other officer till the party entitled thereto comes for the same, or sends some one legally authorized to sign the docket.

I want to say to all honest people who may have read your article, or who may read this that the whole proceeding is to effect revenge, and that no embezzlement or other crime has been committed by me. That I have held this money legally, and that I am right here doing business where I have been for the past fifty-two years, and where I shall remain long after the people who have instigated these proceedings have received their deserts and I am not liable to be run off the earth for an unjust accusation as this is.

I will say further, that when this matter came into the hands of the sheriff and the Circuit Court, I was met with the very best of treatment, and had no more difficulty than any other person in the same circumstances would have had, in adjusting the matter by giving bond.

When this matter comes before the court, you will see what a mountain has been made of a mole hill, and when this unjust accusation has been tried it will all vanish as vapor.

J. W. IDDINGS, Justice of Peace.

ERUPTION ON ANKLE GREAT SUFFERING

Many Nights Did Not Sleep. Burned All the Time. Wore Bandage Night and Day. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Well.

Kingsville, Mo.—"My trouble began eighteen years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores around my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great suffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear for anything to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were confined around my ankle. I could not bear to scratch it, it was always so sensitive to the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This I wore night and day.

"I tried many remedies for most of the eighteen years with no effect. Last summer when my ankle had been sore for over a year and much worse than ever before I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It would itch and burn, besides a great hurting that I think tongue could never explain. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooke, Oct. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Conference on Rural Life.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 26.—Considerable interest is being manifested in all parts of the state in the Conference on Rural Life, to be conducted at Purdue University Lafayette, October 16th and 17th, following the annual conferences of county agents, and farmers' institute speakers and chairmen. Professor W. C. Latta, farmers' institute specialist, of the Agricultural Extension Department, is confident that the sessions will be among the most beneficial and instructive ever held at Purdue, and is anticipating an unusually large attendance.

"There is a general awakening concerning rural progress," said Professor Latta to a representative of the Herald yesterday. "This conference will deal especially with questions of great moment to the people who live in the country, and will bring together the institute workers, rural school teachers and pastors of the country churches, for the consideration of problems that confront them as workers for rural betterment."

A number of speakers of state-wide reputation have been assured, and efforts are being made to secure others whose reputation along rural betterment lines is nation-wide. The problems of the country church will be given considerable attention, and the country pastors who find they can leave their arduous for two days could not spend their time to better advantage than by discussing their troubles with men who are devoting their lives to rural matters.

As a result of the rural life conference, more effective co-operation between the various forces now working in behalf of the farmer's interests is expected.

The conference of county agents, to be held October 13 and 14, and the conferences of farmers' institute speakers and institute chairmen, on October 14, 15 and 16, will not be of a public character. They will be addressed by experienced agricultural leaders, and an effort made to add to the impetus already accorded agricultural extension in Indiana.

LIGE GRANTHAM BADLY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

AGED GREENCASCADE MAN STRUCK BY CAR DRIVEN BY MRS. EMORY GILBERT OF MARION AT 2:30 O'CLOCK TUESDAY AFTERNOON—TWO WHEELS PASSED OVER BODY.

HIS INJURIES ARE SERIOUS

Two Ribs Are Broken—Gash in Back of Head, Back and Shoulders Hurt and Internal Injuries Are Feared—Mrs. Gilbert Almost Prostrated by Grief—Accident in Business Section of City.

Uncle Elijah Grantham, age 84, one of Greencastle's wealthiest and oldest citizens, was struck and run over by an automobile driven by Mrs. Emory S. Gilbert, in Marion, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Grantham was seriously injured in the accident and now is in the hospital in Marion.

Mrs. Grantham was knocked down and two wheels of the machine passed over his body. Two ribs, one on each side, were broken, his back and shoulders badly hurt, a deep gash cut in the back of his head, his right side injured and internal injuries are feared.

The accident occurred in the business section of the town and Mr. Grantham was hurried to a drug store where first aid was given him. He then was taken to the hospital. The report from the physicians this morning at 11 o'clock are that he is resting easily considering his injuries and age. It is believed he will recover unless complications arise.

Mrs. Gilbert is prostrated with grief. The machine she was driving was a light one or the injured probably would have been much more serious. The car was running slowly when it struck Mr. Grantham. Mrs. Gilbert sounded her horn but because of his defective hearing Mr. Grantham did not heed the warning. Persons who witnessed the accident say that Mrs. Gilbert did everything to warn Mr. Grantham of her approach but that he evidently did not hear the horn.

Mr. Grantham probably will be confined to the hospital for several weeks. He left Greencastle Tuesday morning to go to Marion to attend to business interests there. During the flood this spring a residence property was floated off its foundation and he had contracted with Marion contractors to place the house back on the foundation and repair it. It was to accept this work that he went to Marion.

When he left he asked his wife to leave the front door unlocked Tuesday night so that he could get in without awakening the family. Mrs. Grantham did not know that he had not returned until morning, when a neighbor called her and told her that he had read in a morning Indianapolis paper that he had been injured.

Mrs. Grantham immediately phoned her son, John H. Grantham of Roachdale, who immediately left for Marion. Mrs. Grantham also left at 10 o'clock for Marion.

MARKET OFF 5 CENTS ON BULK OF HOGS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 1.—While changes in local hogs in yesterday's market were narrow, the buyers had a slight advantage and forced a loss of about 5 cents. There was a bulge in the supply, nearly 9,000 hogs being on sale. The demand from order men was not up to recent average and the bulk of the supply went to the leading local packer. One sale was made at $9.15, but the top was generally quoted at $9.10 and the bulk ranged down from this mark to $8.90. The close was a bit slow, but there was a pretty good clearance. A good many more pigs are being marketed than usual.

Heifers a Slow Sale. The tendency in cattle, except on strictly first grade stuff, was lower. Steers worth from $8 to $9 were steady, but other kinds lagged about 10 cents. No. 2 heifers found a steady outlet, but buyers discriminated against other kinds and sellers claimed there was an unsatisfactory clearance, sales not being made even at a slight decline. Best cows sold generally steady.

The calf market was slow and barely steady. Being a Jewish holiday week the demand for veal, buyers state, is less than normal and as a result prices changes are toward a lower average. One bunch of fine lambs sold at 7c, but the bulk brought 6c to 6½c. Sheep were steady, some of the more choice kinds topping at 4c.

BILLY BLODGETT HERE. LOOK OUT

Billy Blodgett was here today. Enough said.

Don't know Billy? The special political writer for the Indianapolis News?

Well, that's strange.

Billy is a genius. A sure genius. For when Billy visits a town and then writes a story for the News the people in that town open their eyes in wonder. Billy tells them things about their own peaceful village that they had never dreamed of. For Billy has a faculty of seeing things in an entirely different light from anyone else.

Greencastle may be depicted as a "veritable hell hole" or perhaps a town beyond criticism. It's a cinch it will be one of the other.

Within the next few days you may learn that there are men in Greencastle who are nothing less than political serpents. Perhaps angels in disguise.

Anxiously we await the verdict.

Lawrence Hazelett, of Terre Haute, spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hazelett.

Work on the alley between Washington and Walnut streets will be started soon. The contract was let to Contractor Kisser of Terre Haute. The alley will be paved with brick and will add to the appearance of the city.

An addition will be made on the rear of the building occupied by the Cline 5 and 10 cent store and owned by Mrs. Lillie Landes. The contract has been let to Greene B. Parker, a local contractor.

Miss Catherine Pfeifferberger has returned to her home in Canton after visiting her mother, Mrs. Catherine Pfeifferberger and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfeifferberger on west Liberty street.
